Opened Spring '08

This luxury hotel, once known as The Betsy Ross hotel, opened its doors back in 1942 when South Beach was just blossoming as a tourist destination. It was even added to the State Registry of Historic Places. Today, its historical charm and multi-million dollar makeover have helped transform The Betsy and set it apart from the Art Deco aesthetic of most other hotels. The on-site BLT Steak restaurant is decorated in dark wood and earthy tones that give it a relaxing yet elegant feel. The room and suites are quite spacious and all are painted vibrant, tropical colors. Head up to the rooftop solarium, furnished with palm trees and crème colored cushions to have a cocktail, get a massage, or just lounge around. This hotel is for the traveler who wants to get away from it all while still staying in the heart of South Beach.

Room rate: $300-$4k per night
