In Miami, a Hotel Renovation and More Openings

The Betsy in South Beach will reopen next month after a $40 million renovation. Built in 1942 and originally named the Betsy Ross, the property has kept its exterior, designed in a tropical colonial style, intact so it may continue to stand out among its Art Deco neighbors on Ocean Drive. The interior, including the lobby and all 63 rooms and suites, has been refurbished to reveal a more modern, light and airy look. Nightly rates start at $400 (www.thebetsyhotel.com).
